AD FORMS CLOSE THE 20th OF EACH MONTH.

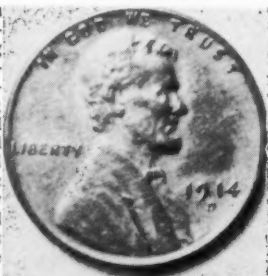

Entered as second class matter October 13, 1956 at the post office of Newark, New Jersey under the act of March 3, 1879.

From Your Editor's Desk —

Reports have been received from some of our readers mentioning the poor condition their mint sets were in when received. Dave Shane, of Springfield, N. J. recently received his order and was disappointed to find some of the silver pieces were scratched up and the cents were discolored dark and purplish. Our office has received a number of comments on the discolored cents. Mr. Shane brought his sets to my office so that I might inspect them as they were. I noted the container had a pink looking paper cover, this paper may well be the culprit. A number of paper wrappings and material are known to contain various chemicals and dyes which may be harmful to the coins. A rubber elastic band is noted to leave its mark on coins if left on it for a while. A letter to this effect will be sent to the Treasury Dept. to see if something can be done to correct this, the reply will be printed.

—oOo—

This publication has mentioned in an earlier issue any ads pertaining to altered dates will be rejected. This ruling will continue to stand in all circumstances, it is possible through an oversight we may miss up, an ad offering rare coins for sale, is accepted in good faith. Should the advertiser offer altered dates upon receiving any orders instead of genuine we suggest you reject same and call our attention to it. Of late many altered 1914-D cents are being offered for sale in person or through the mails for as little as $1. and eventually some will find their way to other collectors.

An Altered 1914-D

We have previously mentioned the detection and printed a photo of the altered date. An altered date may serve its purpose to the sincere collector, but it is the 2nd-4th buyer where it is eventually mis-sold as a genuine. This could be done, through ignorance or intent. In any event some one is out some money. Recent inquiries to the authorities about the altering of the dates has brought out the following. It is not considered an offense of the law to alter a coin to beautify it. Nor is it considered counterfeiting as the denomination of the coin is not changed nor the metal contents. Presently the only recourse would be a suit through the courts. The main reason for the reprint of the altered 1914-D and article is to inform and keep the collectors on their guard. A few weeks ago your editor received a nice letter from one of our readers with a recent find a 1914-D cent enclosed. As this young fellow no doubt was thrilled to find it, it was submitted for the "find of the month." A close inspection revealed it to be an altered date. I regretted having to disappoint the sender, but also glad it wasn't purchased. The letter also stated he was an ardent reader of the "Eaglet" but did not belong to a coin club. If at all possible I suggest to all collectors to belong to one, as many interesting items of the coin hobby are brought out and also a good time had.

Here are the methods known to detect a phoney 1914-D, the coin is usually in fine to unc. condition. The alteration is best done from a 1944-D an expert or engraver can eliminate the front part of the (4) making it a one. This will leave an extra large space between the 9 and 1. Also as of 1918 to 1958 the engravers initials VDB were inserted at the base of Lincoln's shoulder, a glass can detect these three initials. A genuine 1914-D would not have these initials, also the date is somewhat smaller in size. Evidently the artist was not a collector to have the knowledge of the initials or they would have been taken off. It is suggested that all other points be checked other than the inspection removal of the initials, as a later phoney model may have had them removed.

Note to all secretaries and Club officials, in order to help your membership grow and acquaint interested collectors to join. We are preparing a new list of clubs monthly with their meeting night, time and place. We ask all secretaries to forward this information so we may list it.

POINTS TO LOOK FOR ON SOME POPULAR COINS.

1 CENT LINCOLN: The lines on wheat stalk and Lincoln's ear are a good spot to look for wear. On a coin classed as very good most lines should be showing, on a coin graded fine they should be sharp.

5 CENT LIBERTY: E Pluribus Unum is legible on coins graded good, clear on coins graded very good. One graded fine should have full liberty.

5 CENT BUFFALO: On a good coin edge of word Liberty may be slightly worn, but on one graded very good the word Liberty is clear and one-half of horn shown, a fine coin should have nearly a full horn, a coin classed as very fine has full horn and tail shows on hip.

10 CENT MERCURIAL: Watch lines on fasces, on coins graded very good some fasces lines show, a fine coin should have most all lines.

FOR BEGINNERS who are just starting to collect, here are a few suggestions and some advice. First, a coin guide book is a must. They can be purchased for $1.00 or more for helpful information: on care, condition, value, amount minted, types, how coins are made, and other news of help and interest. Most coins can be found in circulation. As you are making your set always try to improve the worn coins. Value of coins depends greatly on the condition. Never clean or polish coins unless you are experienced. If you must try, use a common date coin. There are handy cleaning kits available for this purpose. Coin insert folders and other supplies can be obtained at your dealer. You may also notice that the age of old coins do not make them rare. There are some late date coins minted that are worth more than some hundreds of years old. What makes one coin worth more than another are by these factors: Amount of coins minted, availability, collectors demand and any unusual die strikes. Coins can be obtained through purchases, by auctions or trading with collectors. Mint sets can be bought by writing the Treasury Dept., U. S. Office of Treasury, Washington 25, D. C., at face value, plus postage and handling. To obtain Proof Sets of current year send $2.10 money order to Supt. Phila. Mint 18th and Spring Garden Streets, Philadelphia, Pa. You may order as many sets as you wish. Commemorative half dollars are authorized periodically by Congress. These halves when issued are not sold by the mints, they are turned over to a Commission authorized by Congress at face value. The Commission then sells the halves at a premium.

Queen Elizabeth Hands Out Alms, Washes No Feet

LONDON, April 3—Queen Elizabeth today handed maundy money gifts to 64 Britons, one man and one woman for every year of her life.

She did not copy her ancestor, Queen Elizabeth I, who washed and kissed the feet of the recipients of the bounty.

The queen twice left her seat in Westminster abbey to distribute red, green, and white purses carried on a silver-gilt dish by a yeoman of the guard dressed in scarlet and gold Tudor uniform. The 32 men each received $13.30. The 32 women got only $11.90 each. The bounty also included 32 specially minted maundy pence.

Maundy money is Britain's oldest royal charity. It dates to the 14th century King Edward III, who started the practice of giving maundy alms to the poor plus a foot bath as a token of the Monarch's humility.

The last monarch to carry out the foot-washing was King James II. Historians recorded he "washed, wiped and kissed the feet of 52 men on April 16, 1685.

ROUSH STAMP AND COIN CO.

56 SOUTH MAIN STREET

MANSFIELD, OHIO

Dear Mr. Spadone:

There must be some interesting side lines in coin collecting, as there is in other hobbies. Stamps, for instance have many phases.

In looking over my few Canadian coins recently I found five or six bank tokens which are somewhat larger and heavier than the large cents.

A half penny token was put out by the Bank of Montreal in 1844 and the Bank of Quebec in 1852. Apparently more plentiful are those of the bank of Upper Canada, as I have three or four dated in the 1850s. Probably several of the banks put them out each year over a certain period.

While items like these are not real coins, a set of them would add variety and I doubt if it is a simple matter to get a complete series.

Jessy B. Kendall
Baltimore, Maryland

Dear Sir:

I think it would be a good idea if all collectors who obtain rolls of coins from the bank would in the future write "coin collector" on each roll. This would save other collectors from wasting time looking through rolls which had already been gone over.

Dear Sir:

Enclosed, find bank money order for the amount $3.50 to cover cost of two year subscription to your periodical, "Flying Eaglet".

P.S. How come, no one advertises curved cents. I might be interested.

Dear Sirs:

I am enclosing $5.00 for three years. I find a lot of information in your magazine.

Money Allergy causes woman to Lose Her Job

SAN ANTONIO, Tex — Mrs. Mildred L. Francis learned some bad news yesterday—she's allergic to money. And she works with great stacks of it.

The diagnosis came from a physician for the deputy clerk in the county treasurer's office. Either bills or silver cause a rash.

Treasurer Cecil Lipscomb said he will restrict Mrs. Francis to bookkeeping duties.

He said she will be paid by check, not cash.

Albert Kramer, of New York City, reports an item of interest and challenge to our readers. Many collectors may not know this, but there in an inscription in our Franklin half dollar. Can you find it and explain what it says? We will publish the answer if someone can supply us with the correct information.

Dear Mr. Spadone:

Enclosed kindly find my remittance for an additional year's subscription to your coin journal, "The Flying Eaglet".

Your readers, especially the Mercury Dime collectors, will be interested in knowing that it is not impossible to find the Rare 1916-D. The writer was fortunate enough to pull one from a roll of dimes secured at the bank. I have only the 1930-s to find before my collection is complete.

I thoroughly enjoy your publication.

Robert Blanchard
Hilliards, Ohio

Dear Sir:

I was reading the February issue of "The Flying Eaglet" and I saw some grading standards of the Indian cents. This started me to looking and I found another point of wear on it. The Indian on the coin is wearing what looks like a pearl necklace and I think that this is a good point to look at to determine the condition of Indian cents.

P.S.—I think your magazine is tops. Keep up the good work.

A Faithful reader,
Edward Prewitt
Indianola, Miss.

The only "Lapeer" collector

Bob Grazier of Box 149 Lapeer, Michigan is the only known collector from this town. Bob is a cashier at the "Lapeer Savings Bank". A newspaper clipping received showed Bob, with his exhibit display at the bank during National Coin Week, April 21-27. Also on display was the U. S. Secret Service, which contained (2) counterfeit $100,000. bills. The currency bills displayed were from $1. to $100,000. every bill issued. Bob has given talks on the display to various school groups and visitors.

Lorraine Wagner of 908 Mt. Loretta Ave. Dubuque, Iowa is shown reading her March, issue with interest. Lorraine, recently wrote her find of a Lincoln cent with "Goatee" on chin. She also states the "Flying Eaglet" is the best numismatic magazine to advertise in, her quote, "I had an ad in your magazine for one year and got hundreds of replies, so I am inserting another for one more year. I know I will receive the response." Lorraine, also welcomes all visitors to her coin shop if they are in the area or passing through.

BUREAU OF ENGRAVING AND PRINTING

Part I of a Three Part Series

Prior to 1861, there was no federal paper money issued. However, the outbreak of the Civil War forced the United States Government to introduce paper money as a substitute for specie. The first paper money was authorized by Acts of Congress of July 17, and August 5, 1861, and February 12, 1862, which required the Secretary of the Treasury to issue demand notes signed by the Treasurer of the United States, the Register of the Treasury, and other officials whom he might designate. The demand notes were printed by private bank note companies for the Treasury Department, before the Bureau came into existence.

The beginning of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing may be traced as far back as August 29, 1862, when a force of two men and four women working in a single room in the attic of the main Treasury building began to separate, seal, and sign $1 and $2 notes which had been printed by private contractors. In November 1862, the First Division of the National Currency Bureau, later called The Bureau of Engraving and Printing, also commenced the printing of currency notes from plates engraved by Treasury employees. By 1864, it had become apparent that the United States Government was to be indefinitely engaged in the manufacture of paper money. It was therefore recommended to the Secretary of the Treasury that "The Engraving and Printing Bureau of the Treasury Department," be established; however, the proposal was not accepted at that time. But, congressional legislation finally recognized its existence in the Appropriation Act of August 15, 1876, and it has since functioned as a distinct entity within the Treasury Department.

As the years progressed, the Bureau of Engraving and Printing gradually absorbed the functions performed by the private bank note companies and, on October 1, 1877, the printing of all United States securities was centralized in the Bureau. The printing of internal revenue stamps was taken over in 1876 and the production of postage stamps in 1894.

The Bureau in many ways resembles a private contracting firm. It receives orders for work from almost every branch of the Government. But the greatest number of orders are received from four agencies—Treasury Department, Federal Reserve System, Internal Revenue Service, and Post Office Department. The Bureau performs the work contracted for, and is reimbursed for all work delivered.

From 1862 until 1880, all Bureau functions were housed in the main Treasury building. In 1880, Congress appropriated the sum of $300,000 for the purchase of a site and erection of a building on 14th Street at E. now Independence Avenue, for the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. This building is the red brick edifice which stands today just north of the present main building and, until recently was occupied by another division of the Treasury Department. During the past three years, personnel of the Department of Agriculture has taken over most of the office space in this building. By 1914, the Bureau operations had increased to such an extent that a larger building was needed. In the spring of 1914, the Bureau occupied the present main building which had just been completed. This building cost approximately $3,000,000 or ten times more than the building erected in 1880. The Bureau Annex, directly across from the main building on the east side of 14th Street, was completed in 1938. Thus, it may be seen that the Bureau has grown from a small unit of six persons to a large modern factory housed in two buildings with a combined floor space of approximately 30 acres, and employing about 3,500 people.

The Bureau designs, engraves, and prints currency, bonds, Treasury notes and bills, postage and revenue stamps, checks and miscellaneous engraved work for the various governmental departments and independent establishments, and the insular possessions. Printings cover a wide range of subject matter from the ½¢ postage stamps to the lofty $500,000,000 Treasury note officers' commissions printed on artificial parchment, invitations and admission cards to White House receptions, diplomas for the Coast Guard Academy, and certificates of meritorious awards made to service personnel by the Army and Navy. In addition to the work that is plate printed from engraved plates, numerous items are produced on surface printing presses from offset plates. The greatest volume of work produced by the offset process includes cigarette and liquor stamps, United States savings bonds ($500, $1,000, $5,000, and $10,000 in Series H; $25, $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000, and $100,000 in Series J; and $25, $50, $100, $200, $500, and $1,000 in Series E, 1943 design), checks and postal savings certificates.

When a new item is to be produced a model is prepared by a designer. It is based upon discussions with officials of the different federal agencies interested in the product. By tradition, portraits used in the design of securities and stamps are those of Americans of historical importance and, in particular, those used on currency are portraits of persons whose places in the annals of our country are well known to the public.

The separate features of a given design are hand-tooled by engravers who cut v-shaped incised lines in soft pieces of steel. The separate engravings, which are called dies, are hardened and then transferred onto a cylindrical roll to form one composite design. The engraving is known as the master roll. Without loss of distinctive detail the engraving is transferred through various processes until it reaches the press as a multiple plate ready for production. Each feature, such as the portrait, lettering, scroll work, and the lacy geometric patterns, is executed by an artist skilled in a particular field.

As a precaution against counterfeiting, United States currency notes are printed by the engraved intaglio steel plate method on a distinctive paper with inks manufactured by the Bureau. The currency paper for dry printing is composed of 75% cotton and 25% linen. For wet printing the fiber content paper is 50% cotton and 50% linen. Both types of paper contain small segments of red and blue fibers which are imbedded in each product during the process of manufacture. The papers for both wet and dry printing are produced by a commercial firm operating under strict government control.

All inks used in plate and surface printing are manufactured in the Bureau by blending dry colors, oils and extenders of the highest quality obtainable in huge mixers similar to the large kneading machines used by commercial bakeries. The blended ink mixtures are ground under extreme pressure in large mills between water cooled heavy steel rollers to insure a product of the proper texture. A test is made of each new batch to insure that it conforms with the standard established by the laboratory before any of the ink is used for printing.

The principal product of the Bureau is paper currency. The three types now in circulation can be identified by means of the color of the seal and serial numbers appearing on the face of the notes: On silver certificates they are blue; on United States notes, red; and on Federal Reserve notes, green. Regardless of the type of bill issued, all those of like denomination bear the same portrait and the backs are of uniform design. There are twelve denominations of currency which range from $1 to $100,000. However, the $100,000 note is a gold certificate issued only to the Federal Reserve banks and it does not enter into public circulation. Since there is very little demand for the higher denominations of currency, $500, $1,000, $5,000, and $10,000 Federal Reserve notes, they are printed only when required by a bank. The $100 note is the highest denomination printed since 1945.

The Bureau has printed currency by the wet process until recently. As a part of an extensive modernization program which has been in progress since 1950, eight high-speed rotary intaglio printing presses were ordered and received during the calendar year 1957. Currency ($1 silver certificates, series 1957) is being produced on these presses from larger back and face plates, 32 notes to a sheet, by the dry intaglio process. In contrast to the wet process which has been in use in the printing of United States paper currency for approximately 95 years, the dry process provides for a relatively high degree of dimensional stability in the paper, and simplifies subsequent trimming and cutting operations.

After the backs and faces of the notes are printed, stacks of the 32-subject sheets are trimmed to a uniform dimension and then the serial numbers, seal, series year and signatures are printed on each note on the 32-subject sheets by the typographic process. A detailed examination is then made in 16-subject form (½ of a full size sheet) after which the sheets are further subdivided into stacks of individual notes. After final examination for removal of defective notes and their replacement with "star" notes, the currency is securely banded and wrapped for delivery.

HOW TO IDENTIFY A 1864 L

Which of these 1864 Bronze Indian cents has the (L)? One can usually tell by the pointed bust, the occasion may arise when the date or the coin is considerably worn making it difficult to identify the scarce 1864 L.

If you will note it is the cent at the left, the pointed bust is over the one in the date, compare this with the rounded bust in the second photo. You can also see the rounded bust protrudes past the date. If you have sharp eyes you can actually see a white spec between the last feather and the ribbon, it is the engravers initial (L). Of interest also is the two types of designs of the feathers position at the word America. From 1864 to 1886 the last feather points between the I-C in type (1), in type (2) the last feather points between the C-A, type (2) starts, with year 1886, this date is the only one known with type 1-2. Type (1) is believed to be scarce. Check your Indian cents for these types.

Treasury Department
Washington 25

Dear Mr. Spadone:

This is in reference to your letter of May 8 concerning the 1957 uncirculated Mint sets.

It should be recognized that the uncirculated coin released by the Mint for collectors is in the same conditions as coin released by the Mint for general circulation. As for the coin which is sent to Washington for distribution by the Treasurer, we cannot avoid the abrasion which occurs from the time the coin leaves the press until its transfer to Washington is completed; otherwise it would be necessary for us to individually package each coin which is destined for inclusion in an uncirculated set. As you know, we try to provide near-perfect coins to collectors in the form of proofs, which are readily available to collectors who want coins in that condition.

Inasmuch as your comments relating to the packaging of uncirculated sets is a matter in which the Treasurer will be interested, I have sent your letter on to her office for further reply.

Very truly yours,

W. H. Brett

Director of the Mint

(Editor's Note) The letter below was in reference to the inquiry of placing the letter "P" on all future proofs struck. Also if this not being possible, why was the mint mark placed on the war time issues, mainly Phila. Below is the reply received.

Dear Mr. Spadone:

I have your letter of March 6, 1958, in which you inquire concerning a mint mark used on the silver-copper-manganese five-cent pieces issued pursuant to the Second War Powers Act of 1942.

This alloy was used in accordance with the special provisions of the above-named Act for a limited time only as a wartime measure. The mint mark "P" was placed on the Philadelphia coinage of this alloy in order to distinguish it from coins of the standard statutory alloy, to facilitate the separation of these coins when returned to the mints for recoinage. The marks on those coins made at Denver and San Francisco were also distinctive, in that the mint marks "D" and "S" were greatly enlarged. All of these coins, however, were of the regular issue coined for circulation and represented the only coins of that denomination minted from the time the alloy was adopted until the authorization expired.

This presents an entirely different situation from that which would arise were we to put a mint mark upon coins issued only for collectors. Coins bearing mint marks, during a year when those issued for circulation did not, would be, as I explained to you in my letter of February 25th, a new and special category of coins which we would not have authority to manufacture.

Yours very truly,

W. H. BRETT

Director of the Mint - U.S. Treasury

CENTRAL STATES CONVENTION

Cincinnati, Ohio - May 9-11

by Earl A. McBrayer

Traveling is a lot of fun but it was enjoyable to attend a convention in my home town. The Cincinnati Numismatic Association welcomed The Central States collectors to the Hotel Hilton here in Cincinnati, Ohio, for a three day session of coins, banqueting, entertainment, and good fellowship. Seventy-six dealers, including the majority of the best known professional numismatists in the United States, joined THE FLYING EAGLET in accepting the hospitality of the Queen City.

Much of the success of the convention was due to the hard work of Mr. Ted Rogers, of Norwood, Ohio, who served as exhibit chairman, and Mr. Forrest P. Howe, of Amelia, Ohio, the bourse chairman. Your representative dropped by the hotel late at night before the convention began and found these two amiable dealers with their shirt sleeves rolled up doing much of the dirty work which all too often is taken for granted by those who enjoy a convention.

By prior arrangement of the editors, and with the help of the bourse chairman Howe, THE FLYING EAGLET and the NUMISMATIC NEWS occupied adjacent tables and worked together in acquainting the 350 registered collectors and 500 additional visitors with the advantages of subscribing to journals which would help them with their collecting.

Among the many distinguished visitors who came to Cincinnati to see the famous 1913 nickel and thousands of other coins, bills, and numismatic items was the distinguished gentleman, Mr. M. H. Rothert of Camden, Arkansas. Mr. Rothert, who is second vice president of the American Numismatic Association, signed up for a three year subscription to THE FLYING EAGLET. He was kind enough to explain, after questioning, that it was through his idea that the motto IN GOD WE TRUST has been added to the dollar bill.

Mr. Rothert conceived his idea while worshipping in a Chicago church in 1953. While the collection plate was being passed he considered the fact that only the coins bore an inscription illustrating the reverence of the people of our nation for Almighty God. Since our currency is used and circulated in many foreign nations, as well as in the United States, Mr. Rothert decided to propose the addition of the motto to our paper dollar in order to acquaint the world with the attitude of the American people. This action took four years and a Congressional bill before it was accomplished.

It would be impossible to name all of the dealers, friends, and collectors who came by the table of THE FLYING EAGLET but it was warming to greet again some of these friends from former conventions. Among the many who sent their personal regards to all our readers through your representative were the following: Mr. William Donner of Forest Hills, New York (internationally famous for his foreign and ancient gold stock); genial Leo Young, dealer in Oakland, California; and Ben Odesser of Chicago, Illinois, well-known collector of Judaica.

FIRST PRIZE WINNERS OF THE
"CENTRAL STATES CONVENTION"

This happy couple showing their first place awards are, Mr. and Mrs. L. La Mar Davis, of Edna, Kansas. They took first prize with their fine display of Ancient Coins, "Coins Before Christ". Among their prized valuable collection, they have the distinction of owning the Very Rare coin of "Titiana", wife of Pertinax, who ruled the Roman Empire for a short time in 193 A.D.

Among the others having a dealers booth were Mr. and Mrs. John Barber, of Branch Hill, Ohio; Criswells of Pass-A-Grille, Fla.; Leo Young of Oakland, Calif. His "Foreign Paper Money" collection won 1st prize in this class. Robert Ware of Newburgh, Indiana; Ben Odesser of Ashton Sales, from Chicago, Ill.; Wm. Fox Steinberg, of Miami, Fla.; New Netherland of N. Y., plus many others to numerous to mention.

READER'S FINDS

R. W. Miller of New Haven, Indiana, collecting just 8 months was amazed to find a F/VF 1918-17-D nickel. The coin was checked at a local dealer. The only coins Miller has bought were the 1914-D cent and the 1885 nickle, his large collection were all found in circulation.

Alfred Berry, a bus driver from Brooklyn, N. Y. reports finding a 1942/41 dime and a 1864-L cent.

Nick Salimbene, of Newark, recently mentioned he couldn't understand how these collectors find the scarce dates as he never found a coin worth more than 10¢ in years. To his surprise he came up with a 1893 round top Canadian dime. This coin is worth over $100. Not being a collector of Canadian coins, Nick brought it to the "Newark Coin Club" to sell or swap, but no takers. Upon showing your editor the coin, I suggested a classified ad should get a decent response. As we have a large range of various collectors. Needless to say, Nick phoned me he got many replies and struck a very satisfactory sale.

James Langille, of Toronto, Canada, making his usual Friday bank visit, brought some rolls home. Upon checking his first roll he found a 1909-S Lincoln cent. Being scarce in the U. S. they are more than scarce in Canada.

Ed. B. Strozzyk of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, a consistent advertiser in our pages, reports receiving a 1956 Proof set with the dime, nickel, and cents missing from a mint sealed set.

When plotted on a chart such as this one, Canada's interesting, attractive five-cent series shows up as an unusually provocative one to collect. Its coin folders are good sellers, for your "schoolboy numismatist" rapidly graduates to Canadian nickels from small cents. But the series has all the characteristics necessary to keep the best of us hopping for several months, and proves to be one of the most interesting sequences of contemporary coins.

The "nickel" series of Canada dates from the year 1922, when the largest coins of pure Canadian nickel replaced the slim silver issues which correspond to the United States half dime. The "big fives" have been issued annually, employing one basic design from 1922 until the end of the reign of King George V, 1936. The 1937 release, also nickel, inaugurated the characteristic "beaver" reverse, which has become thoroughly associated with Canada's five-cent denomination. Two special designs have been employed, one a commemorative. The "V" and torch motif saw service on issues of 1943, 1944 and 1945, and was designed to give a boost to the country's "war effort". Later, in 1951, the commemorative issue marked the two hundredth anniversary of the isolation of the element nickel, now extremely important in Canada's economy.

Two periods of nickel shortage, both the result of war demands, caused Canada to strike five cent pieces in materials other than nickel. From September, 1942, beaver coins of that year were struck in tombac, an alloy 88% copper and 12% zinc, on twelve-sided planchets to minimize confusion with bronze cents. In 1943 the coins assumed the "V" design, while still of tombac and twelve-sided. The 1944 and 1945 releases were of chrome plated steel, substituted when the similarity between tombac fives and bronze cents caused the former to be gradually withdrawn. The steel coins proved even less of a success, being extremely prone to rust and corrosion. The 1946 post-war issue reverted to pure nickel and restored the "beaver" design, though the twelve-sided planchet was retained and now is a characteristic of the Canadian five-cent piece.

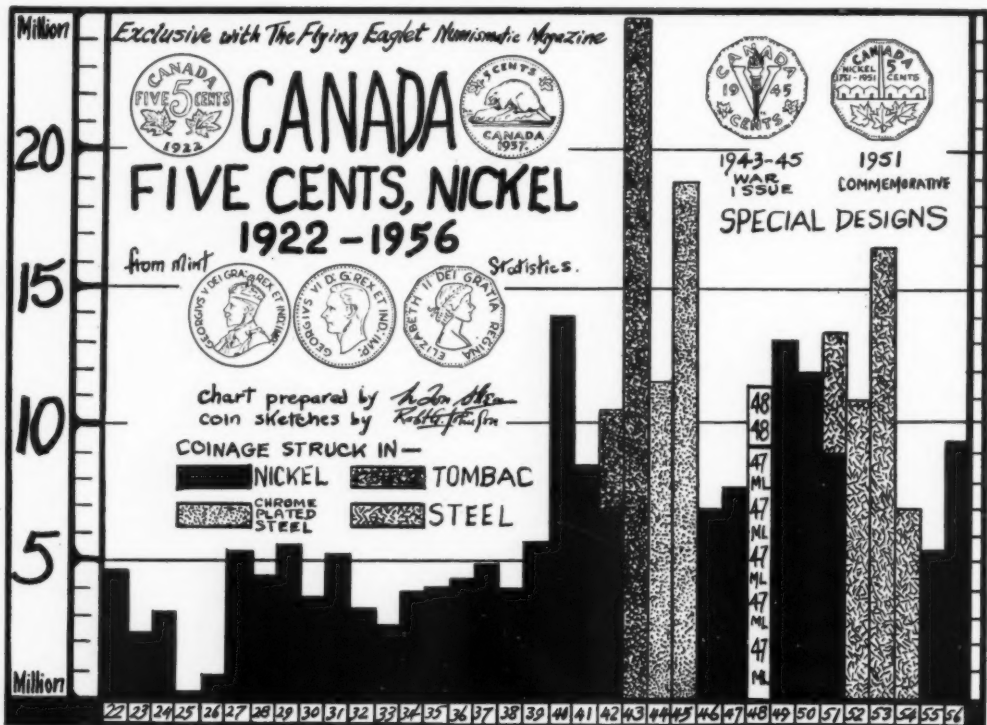

Nickel coinage struck in the calendar year 1948 is of two types, in keeping with a differencing present on all Canadian denominations of that time. India's decision to leave the Empire necessitated a new obverse on all coinage, one which would delete from the title of King George VI the Latin reference to "Emperor of India". New obverse dies were required, and were slow in coming. Hence, coinage issued for most of 1948 continued to bear the date to distinguish these late strikings. Such coins frequently are listed in catalogues and sale lists as 47-ML, as has been done on this chart. Note that the regular 1948 issue is relatively difficult to obtain. This is true of all 1948 denominations, and particularly true of the ten cents, fifty cents, and the silver dollar, priced at up to $40, B.U.

The Korean conflict again aggravated the Western World's nickel shortage and Canada, to meet war commitments, instituted several large issues in steel. The "beaver" design was employed. Since 1955, pure nickel has returned to regular use.

The circulation picture differs from the mint statistics, in that all tombac strikings have vanished from wallets and tills (though millions may be hoarded) and wartime chrome-steel issues are seldom seen. Of other issues, the chart tells the story. The 1925, with 200,000 mintage, is decidedly illusive and worth a few dollars. The 1926 is known in two varieties, distinguished by the position of the final digit of the date, and both are quite scarce. Other issues quite readily are found in circulation from day to day.

OUR T.C.C. SALE FOR 1958

By Al Rosen, Toronto, Canada
The sale was held at the Royal York Hotel, an approximate of 150 in attendance with more like 80 staying for the Dinner. Many of the U.S. members of the C.N.A. in attendance. Mr. J. Pittman of Rochester was the speaker. His speech was of an impromptu nature, with the highlights centering on his proof that the 1936 dot cent and dime did exist in circulation. As an example he did mention, "there was a woman who did tell him she had two in a cigar box, but spent them" this is quite a weak argument, he did mention that Mr. Potter had once put a specimen up for sale, (this is definitely recorded, but believed it was merely a test case to establish a value the coin would bring. To date none has ever been found in circulation, and contrary to all catalogues that exist, the Canadian specialist does not believe they were ever placed in circulation.) This applies to the cent and dime only, the 25 cent piece is quite common.

RARITAN VALLEY COIN CLUB

The Raritan Club meets the first tuesday of each month at 8 P. M. at the "Johns-Manville Research Center", FINDERNE, N. J.

New members are invited to join, visitors and guests are welcome to attend the meetings. Inquiries should be written to the Club Secretary, Russel J. Nadear, Box 87, Whitehouse, N. J.

Robert Shindler, operates a small restaurant in Pittsfield, Mass. He ran short of his daily newspapers for his customers so in place of these he used the back issues of our "Eaglet". One of his customers, Steve Strauss, saw the photo of the double date cent 1955. That night he decided to check his jar bank and found (2) Steve is not a collector.

—o—

George Long, of Brooklyn a bank teller continues to find scarce dates. His recent find is a 1909-S vdb in fine, the last few months George has come up with at least 6 key Lincoln cents. This proves scarce dates can still be found, if you are willing to hunt for them.

1943 COPPER CENT

The 1943 cent in copper, found by 14-year-old Marvin Beyer, Rivera, Calif., will be sold in the auction sale to be conducted by A. Kosoff in conjunction with the Los Angeles ANA Convention in August.

Beyers turned down an $18,000 house and $2,000 cash for the piece.

Mr. Kosoff states that the senior Mr. Beyers has spent some $700 in laboratory tests to prove the piece is same metal content as other dates of bronze cents and that the coin will be accompanied by notarized reports from the Atlas Testing Laboratories, Los Angeles, and includes certification as to specific gravity comparisons and Norelco X-ray Spectograph tests; in addition to notarized report from the Ferro-Spec Laboratories certifying material and as a result of radiograph test that there is no evidence of welding.

This rare coin has attracted considerable newspaper attention and will be the subject of much discussion. It may eventually rate the same status or greater than the rare 1913 Liberty head nickel.

ANOTHER CLAIMANT FOR GOLD COINS

Since junk peddler Julius (Willie) Bracey found the $5,542 cache of gold in a buried sewer pipe October 26, 1956, nearly everybody who had anything to do with the vicinity of 12th and Poplar Streets, in Philadelphia has gotten into the case. The coins are said to be worth $25,000 to collectors.

Bracey found the trove while picking scrap from the debris caused by demolition of properties for the North Allen Homes Redevelopment Project.

Judge Maurice W. Sporkin has been wrestling with the perplexing problem of who owns the gold for over a year now.

So who is now claiming the money? The shovel operator—a corporation named Dee Mar, Inc., formally "engaged in the excavation and foundation aspects of the construction business."

Headed by Salvatore Augustine, president, the firm of excavators claims logically it is rightfully entitled to the coins—it dug them up!

Dee Mar, Inc., through its attorney, Francis Logan, argues that the contract given to the corporation carried specifications which provided that "all material resulting from the clearing and grubbing shall become the property of the contractor and shall be disposed of by him."

The contractor charges Bracey was a trespasser when he carried off the gold coins. The firm declares "among the said materials were certain cast-iron pipes and certain tin boxes containing a number of gold coins all of which were the property of petitioners." Clipping sent in by A. R. Freitag Vineland, N. J.

BROOKLYN COIN CLUB

The 299th meeting of the Brooklyn Coin Club was held at the Hotel Grenada, Wednesday Evening, May 7th. There were forty members and four guests present. The meeting opened at 8:10 P.M. by a stand-in Mr. Wild. The Reverend Hutchinson gave the invocation and asked blessings for the speedy recovery of Ray Gallo, president of the Bronx Coin Club who is now convalescing from an operation. President Frank Porcaro presided again after an interlude. There were no communications, old business or new business. But the business of the convention was dusted off and wrung out. On the bright side the club members took several prizes. Mike Granis took a first and Harold Schornstein took the grand prize at the Metropolitan Convention of May 2-3-4 at the Hotel Statler. There was much praise and back patting for the exhibits and committees. There were a number of extraordinary exhibits and it was a most difficult job for judges to decide the finest and greatest.

THE COLLECTOR'S CLUB OF BOSTON

The Collector's Club of Boston held its 115th meeting Tuesday, May 13, 1958 at the Sheraton Plaza Hotel, Boston. After the pre-meeting dinner in the Town Room of the Hotel, the meeting opened at 8 P.M. with President Louis Koutsos in the chair.

On the head table was a nice display of candy and nuts donated by our Secretary Grace D. Lincoln. These sweets were enjoyed by all present.

During a short business meeting three applications for membership were read and approved.

Andy Scott then introduced the Guest Speaker, Philip A. Perkins, Treasurer of the Palmer Savings Bank, Palmer, Mass. His subject "Mechanical and Still Banks." He has been collecting Banks for 15 years and brought with him a beautiful display of Banks.

He gave a very interesting and educational talk explaining the workings of each bank as he talked on them. Another guest, Mr. Edward T. Richards, 1109 Hospital Bldg., Providence, R. I., President of the Antique Bank Collectors of Rhode Island a collector of Mechanical Banks was then called upon to describe a truly beautiful display of banks that he had brought with him. He also gave a very interesting talk on his banks.

In the display of both collectors there were many banks we had never seen before and perhaps never will. The estimated value of the banks on display was given at about $5,600. All present enjoyed both the speakers and the display of banks.

We then had the drawing on some very nice Numismatic material. Maurice Gould then gave a short but interesting talk on the grading of coins. As usual Maurice then took over the auction of some 30 pieces. The bidding was sharp, but many nice pieces went at less than catalogue.

Grace D. Lincoln, Secretary

NEWARK COIN CLUB MEETS

The 20th meeting of the Newark Coin Club was held on the 13th of May at the Newark Y.M.-Y.W.C.A.

Guests from over ten clubs were welcomed by the President, James A. Brown. The main topic of the evening was the New Jersey State Coin Convention.

Among those present were Arthur Sipe, member of the Board of Governors of the A.N.A., A. H. Mershon of the New Jersey Numismatic Society, Alexander Kaptik, Sgt.-at-arms of M.A.N.A., S. Solomon, President of Camden County Coin Club, Paul Wilkening, President of the Philadelphia Coin Club and William Wild, Vice President of the Brooklyn Coin Club.

After much discussion both pro and con, "Everybody had something to say," it was decided to have a one day convention in Newark on the 13th of September 1958. Also to form a committee of representatives from the various clubs throughout the state to work out plans for a state-wide convention, possibly next year.

By unanimous consent of the members Mr. Lewis Reagan, General Secretary of the A.N.A. was made an honorary member of this club.

Auction was held and refreshments were served.

The HAPPINESS EXCHANGE Radio Program Starts "COIN COLLECTION" Fund

(Big Joe) Joe Rosenfield Jr. the Director of this program, is broadcasting nightly 12 - 3 A.M. The station is WMGM on your dial. Big Joe phoned your editor the other day upon receiving a copy of the "Flying Eaglet." We had a long friendly conversation about the coin hobby, our Eaglet, and the good will the "Happiness Exchange" program is doing for the radio listeners.

The purpose of this program is to solicit donations from the listeners to help the needy. These donations can be in any way, such as money, wheel chairs, crutches, or donating part of your time to the many services rendered, or any items that can be useable. Some of the services the "Happiness Exchange" has supplied for the needy were, gifts and nursing care, radios and T.V. for Veteran's Hospital, musical instruments for young school groups, food baskets for the orphans and the poor, medicine and guidance. They have started blood banks, X-ray centers, school for the blind and deaf. One of their proudest achievements was getting donations of $4,500 to buy a needed ambulance for a hospital.

During 1957 a campaign was started for donations from the listeners for a (coin collection fund) during a 9 month period $3,000 in face value of all types of money U.S. and Foreign was received for the fund. This fund is stored in a vault, a large and extensive collection will accumulate. This will be stored for 10 to 20 years, during this time the value will increase thereby enabling the "Happiness Exchange" to further help the needy. Why not call "Big Joe" at the N.Y. Radio Station Wisconsin 7-3060 or write to "Big Joe's Happiness Exchange Foundation", 226 W. 42nd St., N. Y. 36, N. Y.
